Course Description

This class will introduce students to the important historical, political, social, and economic aspects of contemporary Spanish politics. Firstly, it will examine the legacy of the Franco regime and the transition to democracy after 1975. Secondly, it will focus on the new political, social and economic institutions of the democratic regime. Lastly, Spanish foreign policy in an era of globalization will be assessed.

Prerequisites

No prerequisites

Course Goals and Methodology

The aim of this course is to introduce the students to the main debates surrounding the Spanish political system. During the 26 sessions of the course, different aspects of Spanish politics will be tackled.

Firstly, the course will question the historical roots of the current political system in Spain. Features like the Second Republic, the Civil War, Francoism and the Transition to democracy will be analyzed in order to stress their relevance on current Spanish contemporary politics.

The second part of the course will deal with the different actors that structure Spanish politics. The role and structure of core institutions, political parties, social movements, lobbies, bureaucracy, mass media and political elites will be assessed.

Thirdly, the course will focus on the dynamics structuring the political system. Those dynamics include the processes of decentralization, Europeanization, internationalization. The rise of the Spanish welfare state, the state and nation building process, the new developments affecting the political culture or the effects of the electoral system will be tackled.

Each session will be based on a fundamental question (e.g. Is Spain evolving towards federalism?). The professor will provide quantitative and qualitative data about that issue, and an open discussion will conclude each session. Different educational methods and techniques will be applied: debates, presentations, readings, videos and an oratory contest will help students to get the basic knowledge about the Spanish political system.

Learning Objectives

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

1. Understand the recent developments in Spanish politics.
2. Debate about the current state of Spanish politics.
3. Make the distinction between the different concepts of political science (state, nation, power, clientelism, patronage, institutions, social movements, pressure groups...).

General Course Policies

- Emails: All communication between the professor and the students can be made via Email.
- Attendance and participation: Students are expected to attend all classes. If there is justifiable excuse for missing class, this information must be provided to the proper authorities as required. Active participation in class discussions is required.
- Readings: Students are expected to have a look on the readings before coming to class.
- Use of cell phones: Please keep your cell phones turned off during class.

Course Requirements and Grading

Assessment will involve two written exams. The mid-term and final exams will be made of two sections: a multiple choice test and an open question dealing with the topics tackled during the semester. A study guide will be available.

After each movie (Pan's Labyrinth and Wolf), students will have to answer a series of questions along with a short essay.

During the whole semester, student will be asked to write short essays about a series of topics. The correction of the homework will allow opening class discussions.

Finally, students will be required to participate to an oratory contest. Each team will fight for imposing its own arguments according to a list of topics.

The final grading will be based on the following percentages:

- Questions and essays about movies: 20 %
- Midterm exam (multiple choice test): 20 %
- Oratory contest: 20 %
- Final exam (multiple choice test): 20 %
- Homework: 20 %

Attendance and Punctuality

Students should plan to arrive to class on time. Late arrivals count as absences according to the UPO's policy.

Missed or Late Work

Missed or late work will not be accepted. Please, speak to your professor in case of any problem.

Academic Dishonesty

Students are expected to act in accordance with the University's standards of conduct concerning plagiarism and academic dishonesty.

Students with Disabilities

If you have a disability that requires special academic accommodation, please speak to your professor within the first three weeks of the semester in order to discuss any adjustments.

Behavior Policy

Students are expected to show integrity and act in a professional and respectful manner at all times.

Class Schedule

Section 1: "Introduction: Welcome to Spain":

- Wednesday, January 25, 2017: Presentation: students, program, system of examination, add and drop period, readings and schedule.

PART I. THE HISTORICAL ROOTS OF CONTEMPORARY SPAIN

Section 2: "Second Republic and Civil War: Why did Democracy Fail?":

- Monday, January 30, 2017: It is essential to focus on that period in order to understand the political and social dynamics of contemporary Spain, since most of the current political cleavages are inheritances of the Civil War.

Readings: Sara Schatz, "Democracy's Breakdown and the Rise of Fascism: the Case of the Spanish Second Republic 1931-36", Social History, 26(2), 2001, 145-165.

Section 3: “Francoism: What is the real Nature of the Beast?”:

- Wednesday, February 1, 2017: Francoism is sometimes presented as a classical dictatorship while some authors think it was the first version of European totalitarianism. What is the real “nature of the beast”?
Readings: Thomas Jeffrey Miley, “Franquism as Authoritarianism: Juan Linz and his Critics”, Politics, Religion & Ideology, 12(1), 2011, 27-50.
- Monday, February 6, 2017: List of questions and essay about the movie El laberinto del Fauno.

Section 4: “How to Dismantle a Dictatorship? The Spanish Transition to Democracy”:

- Wednesday, February 8, 2017: Transition to democracy is frequently presented as a peaceful episode led by a collective movement of political actors. We will examine what really succeeded.
Readings: Fabiana Sacchetti, “The Transition from Authoritarianism to Democracy in Spain (1975-1982)”, Working Paper of the IMT Institute for Advanced Studies, Lucca, 2009.

PART II. CORE ACTORS OF THE SPANISH POLITICAL SYSTEM

Section 5: “Crown, Parliament, Government and Judiciary. Who Governs?”:

- Monday, February 13, 2017: At first glance, the Spanish political system is based on a classical parliamentary regime. But who really governs?
Readings: Lynn M. Maurer, “Parliamentary Influence in a New Democracy: The Spanish Congress”, The Journal of Legislative Studies, 5(2), 1999, 24-45.

Section 6: “Parties and Party System: Towards a New Format?”:

- Wednesday, February 15, 2017: After so many years of stability, the 2008 crisis provoked some change. Is the Spanish political system evolving towards a new balance of political forces?
Readings: Francesc Pallarés and Michael Keating, “Multi-level Electoral Competition. Regional Elections and Party Systems in Spain”, European Urban and Regional Studies, 10(3), 2003, 239-255.

Section 7: “Spanish Pressure Groups: How to Channel Them?”:

- Monday, February 20, 2017: Spanish institutions, as in other European polities, face different pressure groups intending to influence policy-makers. How do Spanish lobbies organize and how do they get their objectives?
Readings: Sebastian Royo, “From Contention to Social Bargaining: Labour Unions and Democratic Consolidation in Spain”, Democratization, 12(1), 2005, 60-84.

Section 8: “Social Movements in Spain: Is Civil Society Organized?”:

- Wednesday, February 22, 2017: Who are the social movements in Spain? How do political institutions and civil society combine? How do social claims circulate from the bottom to the top?
Readings: John Karamichas, “Key Issues in the Study of New and Alternative Social Movements in Spain: The Left, Identity and Globalizing Processes”, South European Society and Politics, 12(3), 2007, 273-293.

Section 9: “Spanish Political Elites: Usual Suspects?”:

- Monday, March 6, 2017: Spanish political elites and their systems of recruitment are criticized since the beginning of the financial crisis. How to describe their social profile and evolution since the end of Francoism?

Readings: Xavier Coller, Helder Ferreira do Vale and Chris Meissner, “Political Elites in Federalized Countries: the Case of Spain (1980-2005)”, Working Paper del Institut de Ciències Polítiques i Socials, 268, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, Barcelona, 2008.

Section 10: “Spanish Public Administration: Reformism or Inertia?”:

- Wednesday, March 8, 2017: The Spanish public administration has faced several challenges since the transition (e.g. decentralization, welfare state, modernization, new public management). What is the current profile of the Spanish public administration?

Readings: Lourdes Torres and Vicente Pina, “Reshaping Public Administration: the Spanish Experience compared to the UK”, Public Administration, 82(2), 2004, 445-464.

Section 11: “The Fourth Power? Mass Media in Spain”:

- Monday, March 13, 2017: The period of Francoism banned unofficial mass media. From the 1980s, big media corporations have grown in Spain. Are they related with political parties? How do they influence voters? Are they a real fourth power defending the freedom of communication?

Readings: Carles Llorens, “Spain’s Media Concentration Policy: a Patchwork Crucial to the Understanding of the Spanish Media System”, International Journal of Communication, 4, 2010, 844-864.

Wednesday, March 15, 2017: Mid-term exam!

PART III. STRUCTURAL DYNAMICS OF SPANISH POLITICS

Section 12: “Territorial Political System and Decentralization: Towards Federalism?”:

- Monday, March 20, 2017: The Spanish territorial system is a recent creation which was profoundly shaped by decentralization. Is that unstable institutional arrangement evolving towards federalism?

Readings: Luis Moreno, “Federalization and Ethnoterritorial Concurrence in Spain”, Publius. The Journal of Federalism, 27(4), 1997, 65-84.

Section 13: “Spain, What Model for a Multicultural Society?”:

- Wednesday, March 22, 2017: During the last 15 years, Spain converted into an immigration country by attracting people from around the world. Is this trend over? How does Spain deal with so much variety?

Readings: Ricard Zapata-Barrero, “Managing Diversity in Spanish Society: A Practical Approach”, Journal of Intercultural Studies, 31(4), 2010, 383-402.

Section 14: “Does Spain Exist? Nationalism(s) in the Peninsula”:

- Monday, March 27, 2017: Contemporary Spanish politics has been – and is – largely shaped by center-periphery tensions including terrorism. How do Spaniards deal with their overlapping identities?

Readings: Ignacio Sánchez-Cuenca, “The Dynamics of Nationalist Terrorism: ETA and the IRA”, Terrorism and Political Violence, 19(3), 2007, 289-306.

- Wednesday, March 29, 2016: List of questions and essay about the movie Lobo.

Section 15: “Times They Are a-Changin’. Political Culture in Spain”:

- Monday, April 3, 2017: Spanish political culture has evolved in a dramatic way over the last 30 years. Let’s have a look at the most important change.
Readings: José Ramón Montero, Richard Gunther and Mariano Torcal, “Democracy in Spain: Legitimacy, Discontent, and Disaffection”, Studies in Comparative International Development, 32(3), 1997, 124-160.

Section 16: “Elections and Electors in Spain. A Proportional System for a Majoritarian Outcome?”:

- Wednesday, April 5, 2017: The current electoral behavior of Spaniards is the product of a 35 years’ evolution that started after the end of Francoism. But how did the current electoral system shape those preferences?
Readings: José Ramón Montero, “Stabilizing the Democratic Order: Electoral Behavior in Spain”, West European Politics, 21(4), 1998, 53-79.

Section 17: “Spain, a sui generis Model of Welfare State”:

- Monday, April 17, 2017: The transition to democracy was also a U-turn towards the creation of a new welfare-state. What model of social policies does Spain belong to?
Readings: Luis Moreno, “Mediterranean Welfare and ‘Superwomen’”, Working Paper Unidad de Políticas Comparadas, 2, CSIC, Madrid, 2002.

Section 18: “Transparency and Quality of Democracy: Is Spain a Corrupted Country?”:

- Wednesday, April 19, 2017: The concepts of transparency, accountability, quality of democracy... have become increasingly popular in political science for the last 15 years. Nevertheless, the high number of corruption scandals in Spain occurred in the 2010s seems to indicate that Spain does not comply with those indicators. So, is Spain a corrupted country?
Readings: Manuel Villoria, Gregg G. Van Ryzin & Cecilia F. Lavena, “Social and Political Consequences of Administrative Corruption: A Study of Public Perceptions in Spain”, Public Administration Review, 73(1), 2013, 85-94.

Section 19: “Spanish Foreign Relations. Still an ‘enfant terrible’?”:

- Monday, April 24, 2017: Despite its integration to the European Union, Spain still maintains strong links with other areas like Morocco and Latin America. But is Spain an outsider from the viewpoint of the European foreign affairs?
Readings: Richard Gillespie & Richard Youngs, “Spain’s International Challenges at the Turn of the Century”, Mediterranean Politics, 5(2), 2007, 1-13.

Section 20: “What’s New Pussycat? Recent Developments in Spanish Politics”:

- Wednesday, April 26, 2017: Gay marriages, debates on abortion, economic crisis, ley de memoria histórica... what lessons can be drawn from the last fifteen years?
Readings: Eladio Febrero & Jorge Uxó, “Constraints and Alternatives for Employment and Output Growth: Spain during the Great Recession”, Journal of Contemporary European Studies, 19(1), 2011, 63-81.

Section 21: “Oratory contest about Spanish Politics”:

- Monday, May 8, 2017: Oratory contest 1.
- Wednesday, May 10, 2017: Oratory contest 2.

May, 15-19: Final exam!
