

COURSE: LTC 490G – Culture of Spanish Cuisine

COURSE OBJECTIVES

The main objective of this seminar is for students to appreciate gastronomy as a cultural experience, seeking the flavors, aromas, colors and textures that characterize Spain's culture through analysis of its gastronomy.

Special emphasis will be placed on the diversity of climates, products, dishes, festivals and dietary habits of the Mediterranean, involving students in a fascinating sensorial experience.

We also aim to convey Spaniards' special relationship with food, especially notable in Seville, where the popular practice of tapeo is a great way to get integrated into the culture.

STRUCTURE

The course consists of a total of 15 hours, divided into 7 practical sessions, both inside and outside the classroom. In these sessions, students will learn the most relevant aspects of our gastronomy, the historical influence of our dishes and the elaboration of our most valued gastronomical products such as olive oil, wine, cold meats and cheeses.

We will learn the significance of tapeo, both nutritionally and culturally, to understand this unique way of relating to food by trying the best tapas in Seville.

We will study the festive side of our gastronomy, discovering the typical pastries associated with different holidays and integral to our traditions. Depending on the time of year, Lent or Christmas, we will taste the delicacies most typical to each season.

TEXTBOOK

Dossier of readings with photocopies made especially for this course, which include orientative questions, theoretical questions, practical information for tastings, vocabulary and some recipes. This information will help students to better comprehend each of the course sessions.

EVALUATION

Evaluation will be ongoing with a special emphasis on student participation. Attendance is mandatory. This component is essential to the course and students' interest, preparation and individual contributions will be taken into account.

Students must write in a learning journal throughout the course, with entries on all of the sessions, providing maximum information on the content covered in class and enriching their comments with the relation of personal experiences. They will receive a list of key questions that will aid them when approaching the texts and facilitate comprehension and reflection. Journal entries should be 120-150 words long and should be written in the 48 hours following each session. It is very important to turn in the journal on time, so that the instructor may grade and return it by the next session.

At the conclusion of the course, students must write their personal reflections on these experiences related to Spanish gastronomy; they may draw inspiration from the course and the knowledge they have acquired while living in Seville. Papers should be 2 pages in length, typed in 12-point Arial font, and they should be handed in following the last session.
